

Privacy Notice

Here at Talladega College, we understand that our patrons care about how their information is used and or shared. We appreciate your trust in that we will protect your personal information carefully and sensibly. The following notice describes our privacy policy regarding your personal information.

We collect your personal information to provide you with a secure, efficient and customized experience with us. This information is necessary to process transactions, resolve disputes, and prevent potentially prohibited or illegal activities. Talladega College will not disclose these items to third parties without your consent other than to law enforcement (by subpoena, court order or other legal procedure), credit bureaus as permitted by law, or our financial partners.

We invoke our rights to amend this policy at any time by posting a revised version on this website becoming effective immediately.
